

TAFT URGES LEAGUE FOR WORLD PEACE

FORMER PRESIDENT OUTLINES HIS PLANS AT BIG ASSEM.

PRESIDENT TO SPEAK

Wilson Will Give Address at Closing Session Tomorrow.—Will be Significant Utterance.

Washington, May 26.—President Wilson is giving more serious consideration to the possibility of restoring peace to Europe than at any time since the outbreak of the war. From an authoritative source it was learned today that the president is preparing to do everything possible for an informal way to bring about discussion of peace between the belligerent nations, although he has not indicated his intention immediately to offer his service formally as mediator. His address tomorrow night before the league to enforce peace is expected to be in the nature of a preliminary overture.

Washington, May 26.—American advocates of an international federation to curtail war after the present European struggle, met here today for the first assembly of the new league to enforce peace. William Howard Taft, president of the league, and Newton D. Baker, secretary of war, were of the day's program and President Wilson's address at the closing session.

tomorrow will be a significant utterance, it is thought. About 2,000 persons, including presidents of universities, railroads, commercial, labor and farm organizations, attended the meeting.

which the joint powers would use their armed and economic forces to enforce its decrees in the interest of international peace, was urged today by Former President Taft before the League to Enforce Peace, of which he is president.

While Mr. Taft urged the future formation of such a world course, he refrained from discussing the cases of the present war or the part this nation may play in attaining peace. His address was closely confined to technical legal questions involved in joined by the United States in such an international rebuff.

Mr. Taft explained that the league platform proposes compulsory submission to a world court of all international disputes, not settled by diplomatic means.

Refers to Bryan Treaties.
Referring to the so-called Bryan peace treaties with England and France, Mr. Taft said it was argued that arbitration stipulation in them was declaration of the authority of the "But upon reason and authority this declaration is untenable," said Mr. Taft. Since the Jay treaty of 1794, Mr. Taft stated that some American nation had been a party to eighty-four international treaties, of which the United States was involved in two-thirds.

"In ten of these, which were boundary treaties," Mr. Taft continued, "was never suggested that the government was delegating any power at all to the tribunal. A submission of the judicial question is not a delegation of power to an agent—it is a submission of an issue to adjudge and it is misnomer to call such a submission

"The question whether a court has jurisdiction is nothing but a question of law. The senate has consented from time to time to arbitration issues of both, arising out of and defined by the language of the treaty of submission. The last notable instance, among the one which involves a really manent court, is the advice and consent by our senate to The Hague international prize court convention which a prominent international prize court was established."

No Amendment Necessary.

Turning to the question of the duty of a nation belonging to the proposed world court to use its army and navy in enforcing its decrees upon other members, that should go to war in defiance of the court's decrees, Mr. Taft took issue with former Secretary of State Bryan regarding Mr. Bryan's contention that constitutional amendments would be necessary before the United States could obligate itself in this respect.

"Mr. Bryan declared that in order to carry out the provision we must have a joint council of the powers to determine when the time had arrived for military action and war," said Mr. Taft, "and that this would substitute the action of the council for discussion in congress. I venture to think that this view is wholly without foundation."

the war is a foreign war, it could not be begun under the constitution unless congress had declared war. To impose in a constitutional way by treaty an obligation on congress does not take away its power to discharge it or refuse to discharge it."

"This duty can only be discharged through action of congress in declaring war," he asserted. "Does that deprive congress of its power to declare war? It seems to me the question answers itself."

With Cuba a similar situation presented.

Would he return to the condition his mouth was in before I treated him for Pyorrhea. So said one of my former patients to me yesterday.

Most of my patients tell me their general health improves right from the first treatment I give them.

If your gums bleed easily and you have a bad taste from around your teeth you probably need a course of treatment to stop the sure advance of this disease.

I will rob you of every tooth in your head if you neglect it.

Bedroom Wall Protection.

While visiting a friend I discovered her way of preventing the beds from scratching the walls when moving them. Tacked to the baseboard at the head of each bed was a strip of picture molding a trifle longer than the width of the bed and painted to correspond to the woodwork. The casters rolled against the molding, and there was no danger of injury to the wallpaper.—Washington Post.

"NERVOUSNESS"

No matter how severe, can be cured by taking the MILK and REST TREATMENT. In this busy life of ours the nervous system is so overtaxed that it gives way under the strain.

The one afflicted may be the energetic man who too closely applies himself to business; the mother, wife or sister who has overdone in the care of her household duties; the school girl who applies herself too ardently to her studies, or the girl who loses much time, rest and sleep in social affairs.

In all such conditions there is a queer feeling, especially in the head—feels as though something awful was going to happen.

Relief and cure may be had by taking the MILK AND REST TREATMENT.

Heart and Home PROBLEMS

—By—
MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters may be addressed to
MRS. THOMPSON
In care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I expect to be married next month. Is it proper to send invitations for the church ceremony only? I am to be married at 3 p. m. We cannot have many guests at the house.

(2) I want my sister to be bridesmaid and I have an intimate friend who would like also to be bridesmaid. Is it proper to have them both?

(3) How long before the wedding should the bridesmaids be sent? (4) If I do not send invitations, please state how I should send the message to distant friends?

(5) Would it be all right to wear low-heeled oxfords? They are white.

(6) I am going to wear a hat. Should I wear a veil? And what kind? I am going away at noon in an auto. Should I get an automobile veil?

(7) It will be proper to invite people to the church ceremony only.

(8) Your friend might be maid of honor, but at a wedding as informal as you expect ours to be I think it would be better to have neither bridesmaid nor maid of honor.

(9) The invitations should be sent two weeks before the wedding.

(10) If I were you I would send invitations to distant friends. An announcement would be better because it does not call for a present. Announcements are sent out by the parents of the bride immediately after the wedding. If you send invitations make them informal. Say that you are going to be married at the church at eight o'clock in the morning and that you would like to have the friend you are writing to be present.

(11) White oxfords are not worn at weddings, but if you make your wedding very informal it will be all right to wear anything you want to.

(12) A veil is not necessary and might be annoying during the ceremony. When you go away in the auto wear a veil to keep your hair from blowing.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls sixteen years old.

(1) Is it proper for us to let boys bring us home from church or entertainments?

(2) Is it proper for us to go walking with boys?

(3) What should we say when boys want to bring us home and we don't want them?

(4) Are we too young to have steady friends?

(5) There are two boys we love and would like to go with. How can we win their love?

(6) Will powder make the skin rough?

(7) Are we too young to work out?

(8) It is better to let them take you home than to go alone, but the best way would be to have one of your parents accompany you.

(9) It would be all right to go walking with boys in the daytime.

(10) Say that you have made other arrangements.

(11) Yes, you are too young.

(12) If the boys want to go with you they will. You will lose their respect if you try to make them. And you are too young to think of winning boys' love.

(13) Powder is apt to make the skin rough unless it is used with cold cream.

(14) You are not too young to work away from home if it is necessary to do so. It would of course be better to go to school.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am sixteen years old and am invited to attend commencement exercises with a boy friend. Do you think I am too young to go? My mother thinks it would be all right for me to go. Commencement is at night.

It would be all right for you to go to commencement.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Can you suggest something to serve for first course at dinner in place of soup or fish?

Serve grape fruit cocktail. It is made by cutting up grape fruit and oranges and adding sugar.

HATE DOESN'T SHOW STRENGTH OF CHARACTER

There is an unfortunate idea current among men that there is something to be proud of in hating people, that it shows strength of character. "I like a good hater," said Dr. Johnson.

That's all right if you hate the sin and not the sinner. One might even be forgiven if one could hate the sin and sinner while some big question of justice or wrong to the human race had aroused the hate.

But that is not the sort of hate that most of us harbor.

"Hated is the vice of mean souls; they feed it with their littleness," says Shakespeare.

Jealousy and envy and hate and vanity—these are the qualities that go sneaking about together.

WHAT CAUSES HALF THE HATE IN THE WORLD

Envy of one or another, often a sub-conscious envy that we have never admitted even to ourselves, is at the root of half the hatred in the world.

Injured vanity accounts for another quarter.

Listen to and watch the next person you hear speaking about someone he hates, and see if you want to sound and look like him.

And if you can't use up all your emotional energy in love and friendship and sympathy, if you must hate someone, goodness knows there's plenty of evil in the world to hate.

As a great philosopher once said, "I will tell you what to hate. Hate hypocrisy; hate cant; hate intolerance; hate injustice; hate imperialism; hate them as Christ hated them; with a deep, abiding, God-like hatred."

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

To Prevent Garbage Can Tipping Over—By driving six strips of wood into the ground closely around the can, and then driving a nail into each strip, so that the can is held in place.

To Clean Kitchen Woodwork, Ceiling or White Enamel—Wet a cloth with cold oil and apply. After the surface has been gone over, take warm water and wash it off; then dry with a clean cloth. This does not injure the paint as when washing with soap, and it will not leave the woodwork streaked.

To Remove Any and All Kinds of Stains from Table Linens—Procure ten cents worth oxalic acid, dissolve in one quart of water, place in bottle and when stains are to be removed, add two or three tablespoons of liquid to sufficient water to cover articles and let soak for half hour. Rubbers all stains will be removed and the linen will not be injured.

CANNING AND PRESERVING.

Canned Rhubarb—Wash and cut rhubarb in one-inch pieces. Have sterilized quart jars, add jars under faucet and fill to overflowing with cold water. Seal with rubber caps. Stand upside down for a while to make sure they are tight. Lay jars on table and turn once in a while for two days, then put in cellar. When using the rhubarb drain from jars and live in cold water. These make delicious pies and desserts for winter.

Cherries—Stem and wash cherries, then pit and put on stove to boil. Have jars sterilized and can in the usual way (without sugar). They will keep just as good as if sweetened.

THE TABLE.

Breakfast Dish—As breakfast dish is economical as well as good, it is made by saving all the pieces of dry white bread and dipping them in this mixture: One egg well beaten, pinch of salt, one tablespoon four mixed with one-half cup milk. When perfectly smooth add 1½ cups milk. Stir together, dip slices of bread in this and fry in hot fat until brown. Serve hot with syrup, jam or jelly of any kind.

Apple Puff—Make one quart of thick apple sauce in the usual way. Whisk still hot sweeten with one-half cup sugar and one-half cup pure maple syrup. Fold into this the whites of two eggs beaten to a stiff froth. Place in a medium oven for fifteen minutes. This makes a dainty dessert and when served as a breakfast dish with hot corn muffins it is delicious.

Almond Cake—One-half pound almonds (shell and powdered), one cup sugar, seven eggs, one teaspoon baking powder. Beat yolks of eggs until thick and lemon colored. Add sugar and continue beating. Beat whites until stiff. Add powdered almonds and baking powder to mixture. Lastly add egg whites. Mix by lifting the wire egg beater straight up and down through the mixture. Turn at once into an ungreased pan. Bake in moderate oven.

Strawberry Shortcake—One egg beaten light, two tablespoons melted butter, one-half cup sugar; mix together. Into this sift two cups flour and two teaspoons baking powder. Add enough milk to make a firm batter. Bake in deep round tin. When cold, cut off entire top of cake. Scoop out center of lower half. When ready for the warm days, when the appetite craves "something different"—for luncheon, for picnics, or any kind of outdoor excursion is Triscuit, the Shredded Whole Wheat Wafer. It is made of the whole wheat steam-cooked, shredded and baked. Toast it in the oven to restore its crispness and spread over it butter, soft cheese or marmalade. Its snappy, tasty aroma is a delight to the palate, supplying the greatest amount of nutriment in smallest bulk. A deliciously wholesome toast. It is ready-cooked, easily carried, is strengthening and satisfying. Made at Niagara Falls, N. Y.

to serve line this part with whole strawberries and sprinkle with powdered sugar. Fill in the center with sweetened whipped cream and replace the top. Serve from the table with crushed berries. It looks like a cake. May be iced if desired.

Mayonnaise Dressing—One teaspoon mustard, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon powdered sugar, two grains cayenne pepper, yolk of two eggs, two tablespoons lemon juice, two tablespoons vinegar, ½ cup olive oil, ½ cup water, ½ cup of cracked ice or ice water. Mix mustard, sugar and cayenne. Mix yolks and one teaspoon vinegar with dry ingredients. Add the ice cold olive oil, drop by drop, stirring constantly. When it thickens use egg beater, add vinegar and lemon alternately. Beat well, add salt last to prevent mayonnaise curdling. This may be canned and kept in ice box for future use.

Epicures claim they can taste whether a salad dressing has been mixed with a wooden spoon, so always use a wooden spoon.

French Fried Potatoes—Wash and pare small potatoes, cut in eight lengthwise, and soak in cold water one hour. Drain and parboil in boiling salt water ten minutes, again drain and plunge in cold water, dry between towels, fry in deep fat a few at a time until delicately browned, drain and sprinkle with salt.

Some real bargains in real estate are printed each day in the Gazette want columns. Look them over.

THE economy

practiced in the use of Ivory Soap for the toilet simply is a matter of paying 5 cents for a six-ounce cake of soap instead of 8 cents, 10 cents or 25 cents for a smaller cake of soap that cannot be a particle better.

It is simply a matter of knowing from experience that Ivory Soap is as mild and as pure as soap can be; that it agrees with the skin as well as any "complexion" soap; that it is the most pleasant and refreshing soap that ever entered a bathroom.

STATE FAIR SECRETARY OPENS OFFICE AT GROUND

Madison, Wis., May 26.—Beginning June 1, the office of Oliver E. Hume, secretary of the state fair, will be maintained on the state fair grounds at West Allis until after this year's big exposition, the dates of which are Sept. 2 to 16.

The premium book for this year's fair is ready for prospective exhibitors and will be sent out during the present week.

Plans for this year's fair were finally mapped out some time ago. From now until the opening date of the fair there will be much building activity on the grounds, and a large force of men is at work getting the grounds in shape for the fair. Within a week a force of painters will begin on exteriors and interiors of buildings.

One of the big departments of this year's fair will be that of the boys' and girls' agricultural clubs, contests, which was inaugurated last year. It is expected that over 1,000 boys and girls will compete. The cash premiums amount to over $1,500 and the special premiums exceed $6,000. Among those offering special prizes are George W. Browne, Fred Paoli, Fred Underwood, president of the Erie railroad, the Merchants and Manufacturers' association of Milwaukee, and the Wisconsin Bankers' association.

An innovation this year will be a general sale of pure bred horses and cattle on Friday, Sept. 16, under direction of Fred Babst.

It is possible that President Wilson or the republican nominee for president may be a special guest at this year's fair. Special invitations will be sent to both. It is understood that both are planning western trips for September.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Well, Mother Must Draw Her Plans Somewhere

BY F. LEIPZIGER

EXERCISE AND GRECIAN BEAUTY WHAT IT MEANS.

Many thousands of women are now a-days paying attention to physical culture and the proper exercise of their body muscles, where, thirty years ago or fifty years ago there was no thought expended on this science which is quite necessary to physical beauty. The reason the Greeks, both men and women, excelled in beautiful and symmetrical forms was because of the attention they paid to the proper exercise. Then, too, they were untrammeled by corsets, shoes and the inconveniences of clothing. To the minds of some women the idea of physical exercise conveys only the idea of hard fatiguing work. Mild exercise continued day after day is best for the body and spirits and health. Without proper exercise there can be no health, and without health there can be no real beauty.

There is no stronger proof of the sound remedial value of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription than that it restores the wasted form to its wonted roundness.

The mighty restorative power of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription speedily causes all womanly troubles to disappear—compels the organs to properly perform their natural functions, corrects displacements, overcomes irregularities, removes pain and misery at certain times and brings back health and strength to nervous, irritable and exhausted women.

It is a wonderful prescription prepared only from Nature's roots with glycerine, with no alcohol to falsify stimulate. It banishes pain, headache, backache, low spirits, hot flashes, dragging-down sensations, worry and sleeplessness surely and without loss of time. Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. Address Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

The TURMOIL

A Novel By BOOTH TARKINGTON

Author of "Monteur Beaucaire," "The Conquest of Canaan," "Penrod," etc.

Copyright 1914 by Harper & Brothers

"Well," he began, frowning, "what I was going to say then—" He broke off, and, becoming conscious that he was still holding the wet napkin in his hand, threw it pettishly into a corner. "I never expected I'd have to say anything like this to anybody I married, but I was going to ask you what was the matter between you and Lamhorn."

Sibyl uttered a sharp monosyllabic "Well."

"I felt the time had come for me to know about it," he went on. "You never told me anything—"

"You never asked," she interposed curtly.

"Well, we'd got in a way of not talking much," said Roscoe. "It looks to me now as if we'd pretty much lost the run of each other the way a good many people do. I don't say it wasn't my fault. I was up early and down to work all day, and I'd come home tired at night, and went to bed soon as I'd got the paper read—unless there was some good musical show in town. Well, you seemed all right until here lately, the last month or so, I began to see something was wrong. I couldn't help seeing it."

"Wrong?" she said. "What like?"

"You changed, you didn't look the same. You were all strung up and excited and fidgety; you got to looking peaked and run down. Now then, Lamhorn had been going with us a good while, but I noticed that not long ago you got to picking on him about every little thing he did; you got to quarreling with him when I was there and when I wasn't. I could see you'd been quarreling whenever I came in and he was here."

"I Want to Know What You Say Over the Telephone to Lamhorn."

"Do you object to that?" asked Sibyl, breathing quickly.

"Yes—when it injures my wife's health!" he returned, with a quick lift of his eyes to hers. "You began to run down just about the time you began falling out with him." He stepped close to her. "See here, Sibyl, I'm going to know what it means."

"Oh, you are?" she snapped. "That was what you were going to say the other day. Yes. What else have you to say tonight?"

"Tonight," he replied, with grim swiftsness. "I want to know why you keep telephoning him you want to see him since he stopped coming here."

She made a low, low sound of comprehension before she said, "And what else did Edith want you to ask me?"

"I want to know what you say over the telephone to Lamhorn," he said, fiercely.

"Is that all Edith told you to ask me? You saw her when you stopped in there on your way home this evening, didn't you? Didn't she tell you then what I said over the telephone to Mr. Lamhorn?"

"No, she didn't!" he vociferated, his voice growing louder. "She said, 'You tell your wife to stop telephoning Robert Lamhorn to come and see her, because he isn't going to do it!' That's what she said! And I want to know what it means. I intend—"

A maid appeared at the lower end of the hall. "Dinner is ready," she said, and, giving the troubled pair one glance, went demurely into the dining room. Roscoe disregarded the interruption.

"I intend to know exactly what has been going on," he declared. "I mean to know just what—"

Sibyl jumped up, almost touching him, standing face to face with him.

"Oh, you do!" she cried, shrilly. "You mean to know just what's what, do you? You listen to your sister fussing about ugly things about your wife, and then you come home making a scene before the servants and humiliating me in their presence! Do you suppose that Irish girl didn't hear every word you said? You go in there and eat your dinner alone! Go on! Go and eat your dinner alone—because I won't eat with you!"

And she broke away from the detain- ing grasp he sought to fasten upon her, and dashed up the stairway, panting. He heard the door of her room slam overhead, and the sharp click of the key in the lock.

CHAPTER XVII.

At seven o'clock on the last morning of that month, Sheridan, passing through the upper hall, found a couple of scribbled sheets of note paper lying on the floor. He recognized the handwriting and put the sheets in his coat pocket, intending to give them to George or Jackson for return to the owner, but he forgot and carried them downtown with him. At noon he found himself alone in his office, and, having a little leisure, remembered the bits of manuscript, took them out, and glanced at them. Having satisfied himself that Bibbs' scribbles were only a sample of the kind of writing his son preferred to the machine shop, he decided, innocently enough, that he would be justified in reading them.

It appears that a lady will not pleasantly upon some windy generalization of a companion, and will wear the most agreeable expression of accepting it as the law, and then—days afterward, when the thing is a mummy to its promulgator—she will inquire out of a clear sky: "Why did you say that the people down-town have nothing in life that a chicken hasn't?" "What did you mean?" And she may say it in a manner that makes a sensible reply very difficult; you will be so full of wonder that she remembered so seriously.

Yet what does the rooster lack? He has food and shelter; he is warm in winter; his wives raise not one fine family for him; but dozens. He has a clear sky over him; he breathes sweet air; he walks in his April orchard under a roof of flowers. He must die, violently perhaps, but quickly. Is Midas' cancer a better way? The rooster's wives and children must die. Are these of Midas immortal? His life is shorter than the life of Midas, but Midas' life is only a sixth as long as that of the Galapagos tortoise.

The rooster is a dependent; he depends upon the farmer and the weather. The farmer and the weather. The rooster thinks only of the moment; Midas provides for tomorrow. What does he provide for tomorrow? Nothing that the rooster will not have without providing. The rooster and the prosperous worker: they are born, they grub, they love, they grub and love grubbing; they grub and they die. Neither knows beauty; neither knows knowledge. And after all, when Midas and the rooster dies, there is one thing Midas has had and rooster has not: Midas has had the excitement of accumulating what he has grubbed, and that has been his life and his love and his god. He cannot take that god with him when he dies. I wonder if the worthy gods are those we can take with us.

Midas must teach all to be as Midas; the young must be raised in his religion.

The manuscript ended there, and Sheridan was not anxious for more. He crumpled the sheets into a ball, depositing it (with vigor) in a wastebasket beside him; then, rising, he consulted a Cyclopaedia of Names, which a book agent had somehow sold to him years before; a volume now first put to use for the location of "Midas." Having read the legend, Sheridan walked up and down the spacious office, exhaling the breath of contempt. "Dam fool!" he mumbled.

He felt very lonely, and this was, daily, his hardest hour. For a long time he and Jim had lunched together habitually at a small restaurant near the Sheridan building, where they spent twenty minutes in the consumption of food, and twenty in talk, with cigars. But now Sheridan remained alone in his office; he had not gone out to lunch since Jim's death, nor did he have anything sent to him—he fasted until evening.

It was the time he missed Jim personally the most—the voice and eyes and handshake, all brisk and alert, all businesslike. But Sheridan's sense of loss went far deeper. Jim was the one who would have been sure to keep the great property growing greater, year by year. Sheridan had fallen asleep, night after night, picturing what the growth would be under Jim. He had believed that Jim was absolutely certain to be one of the biggest men in the country. Well, it was all up to Roscoe now!

That reminded him of a question he had in mind to ask Roscoe. It was a question Sheridan considered of no present importance, but his wife had suggested it—though vaguely—and he had meant to speak to Roscoe about it. However, Roscoe had not come into his father's office for several days, and when Sheridan had seen his son at home there had been no opportunity.

He waited until the greater part of his day's work was over, toward four o'clock, and then went down to Roscoe's office, which was on a lower floor. He found several men waiting for business interviews in an outer room of the series Roscoe occupied; and he supposed that he would find his son busy with others, and that his question would have to be postponed, but when he entered the door marked "R. C. Sheridan, Private," Roscoe was there alone.

"My Name," said Roscoe, "Can Help That."

He was sitting with his back to the door, his feet on a window-sill, and he did not turn as his father opened the door.

"Some pretty good men out there waiting to see you, my boy," said Sheridan. "What's the matter?"

"Nothing," Roscoe answered indistinctly, not moving.

"Well, I guess that's all right, too. I let 'em wait sometimes myself! I just wanted to ask you a question, but I expect it'll keep. If you're working something out in your mind."

Roscoe made no reply; and his father, who had turned to the door, paused with his hand on the knob, staring curiously at the motionless figure in the chair. Usually the son seemed pleased and eager when he came to the office. "You're all right, ain't you?" said Sheridan. "Not sick, are you?"

"No."

Sheridan was puzzled; then, abruptly, he decided to ask his question. "I wanted to talk to you about that young Lamhorn," he said. "I guess your mother thinks he's comin' to see Edith pretty often, and you know him longer 'n any of us, so—"

"I won't," said Roscoe, thickly. "I won't say a dam' thing about him!"

Sheridan uttered an exclamation and walked quickly to a position near the window where he could see his son's face. Roscoe's eyes were bloodshot and vacuous; his hair was disheveled, his mouth was distorted, and he looked deathly pale. The father stood agast.

"By George!" he muttered. "Roscoe!"

"My name," said Roscoe. "Can't help that."

"Roscoe!" Blank astonishment was Sheridan's first sensation. Probably nothing in the world could have more amazed him than to find Roscoe—the steady old wheel-horse—in this condition. "How'd you get this way?" he demanded. "You caught cold and took too much for it?"

For reply Roscoe laughed hoarsely. "Yeah! Cold! I been drinkin' all time, lately. First you notice it?"

"By George!" cried Sheridan. "I thought I'd smelt it on you a good deal lately, but I wouldn't 'a' believed you'd take more'n was good for you. Boh! To see you like a common hog!"

Roscoe chuckled and threw out his right arm in a meaningless gesture. "Hog!" he repeated, chuckling.

"Yes, a hog!" said Sheridan, angrily. "In business hours! I don't object to anybody's takin' a drink if he wants to, out o' business hours; nor, if a man keeps his work right up to the scratch. I wouldn't be the one to baste him if he got good an' drunk once in two, three years, maybe. It ain't my way. I let it alone, but I never believed in forin' my way on a grown-up son in moral matters. I guess I was wrong! You think them men out there are waitin' to talk business with a drunkard? You think you can come to your office and do business drunk? By George! I wonder how often this has been happenin' and me not on to it! I'll have a look over your books tomorrow, and I'll—"

Roscoe stumbled to his feet, laughing wildly, and stood swaying, contriving to hold himself in position by clutching the back of the heavy chair in which he had been sitting.

"Hoo—hoorah!" he cried. "S my principles, too. Be drunk all you want to—outside business hours. Don't for Gossake le'n' thing innerefe business hours! Business! Thassit! You're right, father. Drink! Die! L'ever-thing go to hell, but don't let innerefe business!"

Sheridan had seized the telephone upon Roscoe's desk, and was calling his own office, overhead. "Abercrombie? Come down to my son Roscoe's suite and get rid of some gentlemen that are waitin' there to see him in room two-fourteen. You needn't come in to let me know they're gone; we don't want to be disturbed. Tell Pauley to call my house and send Clara down here with a closed car. We may have to go out. Tell him to bustle, and call me at Roscoe's room as soon as the car gets here. 'Bye, all!'"

Thankful For Relief Remedy Brought Her

Says Fruitola and Traxo Possesses All the Merit That Is Claimed for It.

After completing the necessary treatment, Mrs. S. S. Cole, Lampasas, Texas, was so well pleased with the results that she wrote the Pinus Laboratories as follows: "Fruitola and Traxo are all you claim. It removed a quantity of gall-stones and I feel sure it saved my life. I am well now and thankful to you for the great good your medicine has done me."

Fruitola is a powerful lubricant for the intestinal organs, and one dose is usually sufficient to clearly demonstrate its efficacy. It softens the congested masses, disintegrates the hardened particles that occasion so much suffering and expels the accumulated waste to the great relief of the patient. Following a dose of Fruitola, Traxo should be taken three or four times a day in order to rebuild and restore the system that has become weakened and run down from constant suffering. It is a splendid tonic, acting on the liver and stomach most beneficially.

Fruitola and Traxo are prepared in the Pinus Laboratories at Monticello, Ill., and arrangements have been made to supply them through representative druggists. In Janesville they can be obtained at J. P. Baker, 123 W. Milw. St.

Everyday Wisdom By DON HEROLD

OH MOTHER I'VE GOT ONE OF THE EDITOR

Who remembers when the newspapers were rich with typographical errors, even as a rain cake is enriched with raindrops? To-day it is necessary to go far into the rural districts to find an interesting newspaper and to encounter that rare intellectual treat, the typographical error. A typographical error stirs the deepest critical faculties, and the discovery of one is one of the greatest compensations for country living. Give us the good old country-paper with fish-hooks and collar buttons and nails all mixed in with the type.

Of all things in the world that should be quiet and soft and low, the five o'clock milk wagon is the noisiest.

A gold tooth will give the plainest person a touch of personality.

Health is Best Preparedness and Tanlac Brings Health Very Quickly.

Do you get all tired out and run down and listless? You don't know what is the matter but you never seem to have any pep. You drag about from one day to another with hardly enough energy to put one foot in front of the other. Your digestion is bad, you have practically no appetite, your strength is impaired, you sleep badly at night and during the day you are fidgety and nervous. You don't think much is the matter with you but if you would only realize it you are in a very bad condition. Your whole system is so completely run down and your resistance is lowered so much that you are open to the attacks of any and all diseases. Once you come in contact with any germs in your weakened condition, you are subject to the onsets of sickness. The thing to do is to prepare. Build up your system so as to fight off disease. Get strong and stay strong. Observe the rules of hygiene and when you feel a little "off" take Tanlac, the new system builder and blood purifier. Tanlac is vegetable in composition and contains no harmful drugs or minerals. Tanlac will build the body back to strength in a short time and its action is mild yet very thorough. Tanlac is the best form of preparedness.

This is what Miss Cecelia N. Wagner, of 117 North Adams street, Green Bay, says about Tanlac:—

"I became all run down some time ago due to overwork. I was nervous and restless and slept badly. I lost much of my strength and had no energy. I lost my appetite. My digestion went back on me. I never felt like moving.

"I took Tanlac on the recommendation of a friend and was soon all right again. I was astonished at the quick and effective action of the medicine. I certainly can endorse Tanlac in the highest terms.

Tanlac may be obtained here at Smith's Drug Store.

Every seat in the trolley was occupied, when a group of women got in. Going through the car to collect fares, the conductor noticed a man who, he thought, was asleep.

"I wasn't asleep," said the passenger.

"Not asleep," snapped the conductor.

"Then what did you have your eyes closed for?"

"It was because of the crowded condition of the car," explained the passenger. "I hate to see women standing."

At the dance Percival Augustus was presented to a beautiful young girl from a nearby town. During the evening it was his great happiness to lead her out among the papier mache palms for ice cream and angel cake.

"And so," said the girl in response to Percival's story of his life, "you have never married."

"No," answered Percival. "I shall never marry until I meet a woman who is my direct opposite."

"That should not be difficult," returned the pretty one with a faint smile. "There are bright, intelligent girls in every part of town."

"Has the scientific study made much difference in your boy, Josh?"

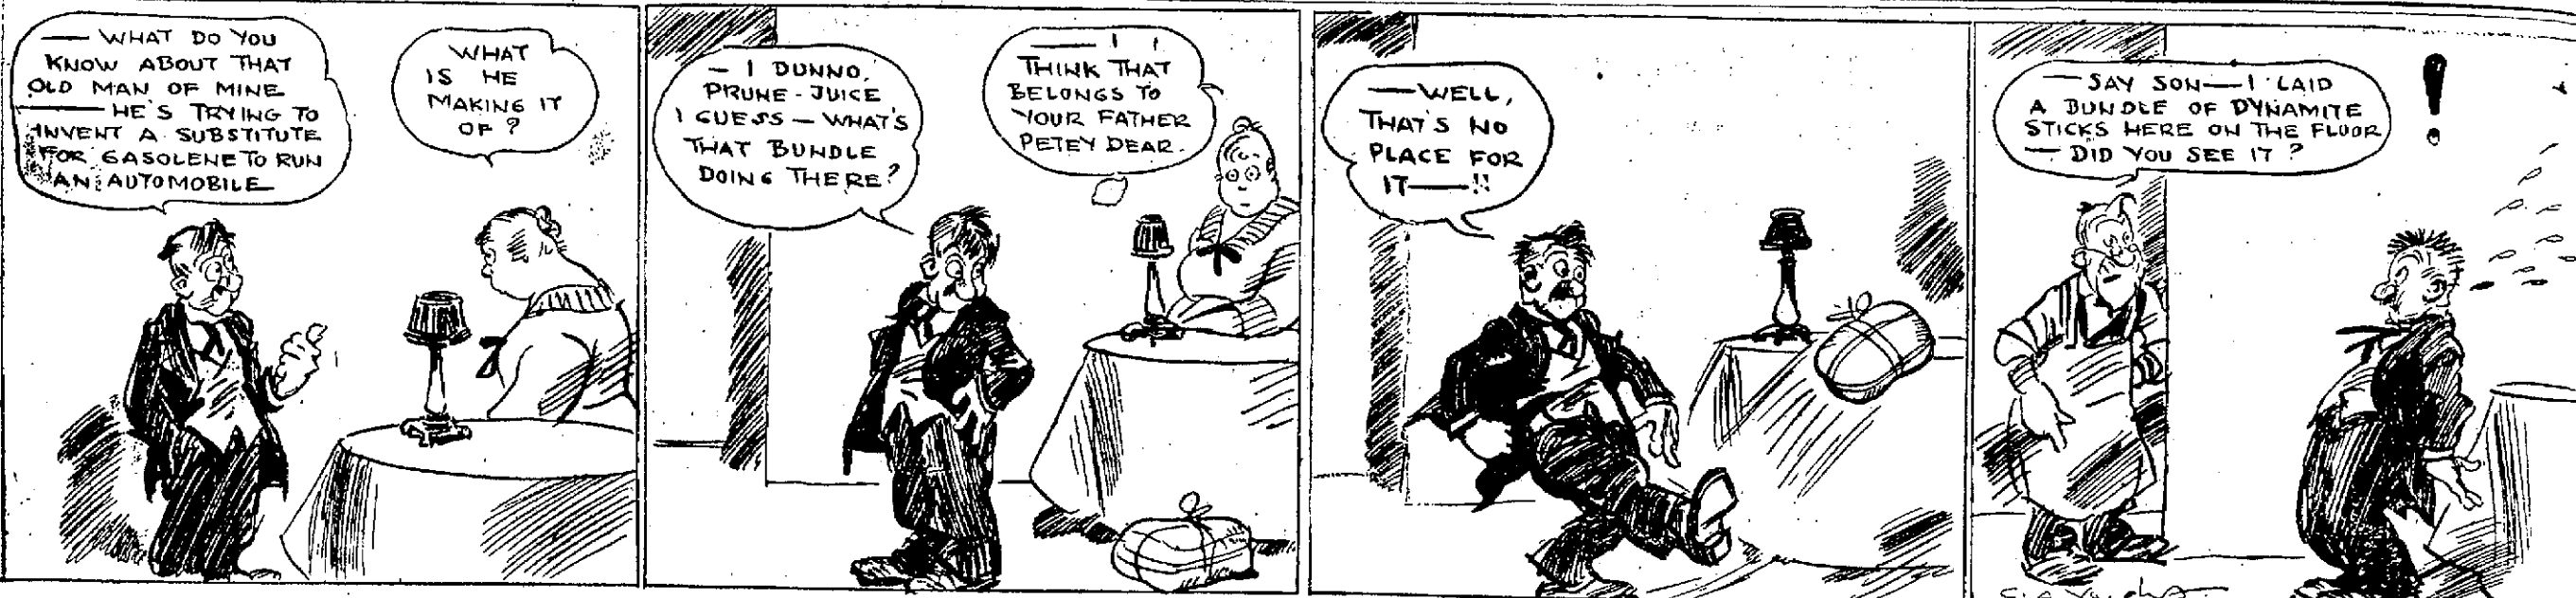

"Not as much as you might think," replied Farmer Cornstossel. "Out in the garden he calls everything by its botanical name. But when he's sitting up to the table, passing his plate, he's

CORNELL FAVORITE AT HARVARD EVENTS

Have Large and Powerful Squad at Annual Championship Games—Meet on Monday and Saturday.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Cambridge, Mass., May 26.—Harvard university is tonight the host of more than five hundred of the leading varsity athletes who have gathered here to compete in the forty-first annual championship games of the I. C. A. A. A. to be held in the stadium today and Saturday. Teams from more than twenty of the principal colleges and universities of the country, including representatives of the Pacific Coast, the Middle West and the South, are on hand to match strength and endurance with the best track and field performers of the East.

New records are predicted in several of the events if the weather conditions are propitious, for the Harvard track is lightning fast and the entry lists include some of the best athletes in training. New figures are not unlikely in the 440 yard dash, the high hurdles, the long distance runs, and at least one of the five field events.

Leland Stanford, Jr. university and the University of California have entered the pink of their track teams, while the University of Michigan has a number of stars in the sprints and middle distance runs.

Cornell, the winner of last season's games, is again the favorite for leading honors. Coach Jack Wackley has brought a large and powerful squad of probable point winners from Ithaca, and the dual meets this spring have shown that the Cornell combination is well balanced and capable of picking up many points with second, third and fourth places. It is conceded, however, that the contest for the championship will be unusually close for the stars from a number of the smaller Eastern institutions, as well as those from the Pacific Coast and other sections, will cut heavily into the scoring of Cornell, Harvard, Yale, Pennsylvania, Princeton and other universities which were the chief contenders a year ago.

The I. C. A. A. A. titular meets date back to 1876 and since that year these games have been held annually without a break. During this period thirty-six colleges and universities have scored points and many more competed unplaced. Harvard leads in the number of championships won and Yale in greatest number of points scored. Yale is second in championships; Pennsylvania third, Cornell fourth, Columbia fifth and Princeton sixth. The scoring system under which the titles have been won has been changed four times and at present.

ent the first five positions in each of the thirteen events are credited with points as follows: First, 5; second, 3; third, 3; fourth, 2; fifth, 1.

SOX PLAY LONG TIE WITH THE NATIONALS

Fourteen Innings of Good Baseball Ends in Deadlock, 3 to 3.—Cuba Lee to Reds.

For fourteen innings the White Sox and Washington Americans battled to a draw at Washington yesterday, the score ending 3 to 3, showing that the Sox are not ready for a funeral in the American league cellar yet. The game was the best played by the White Sox on their swing around the circuit, and each team used three pitchers during the over-time fray.

The seventh inning was the one session for the Sox, when a wild throw paved the way to three tallies. In the last of the seventh the Senators scored two and came within a fraction of an inch of tying the count, but Walter caught McBride at the plate for the third out. Benz started the game with Harper, but these men were ranked during the tateful seventh inning. When the Sox threatened to score in the tenth, Walter Johnson was trotted out after stalling until the Washington star was warmed up. The Senators pulled out and it was only darkness that stopped the two teams. The Sox are idle today in Chicago.

In a woody, rotten ball game, the Cincinnati Reds trimmed the Chicago Cubs at Cincinnati yesterday, 5 to 4, simply because they hoisted a few less boners. Mordecai Brown started for the Reds, but the old Cub veteran gave enough runs the first inning to lose any old game. Heinie Zimmerman balled chimey up by gunning the defense machinery in the second. Alton finished the game for the Bruins while Mitchell pitched for the Reds.

Boston made it three straight over the Cubs at Cincinnati yesterday, winning 5 to 2. Cunningham was batted off the slab. The Tigers were unable to hit Shore successfully.

The games to be played between Philadelphia and Cleveland will have much to do with the leadership of the American league. Yesterday Cleveland was leading 3 to 1 when the game was stopped by rain at the end of the fourth inning.

SAYLOR LASTS ONE ROUND WITH WHITE AT CINCINNATI

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Cincinnati, O., May 26.—Charlie White of Chicago knocked out Milburn Saylor of Indianapolis in the first round of their scheduled ten round bout here Thursday night. Saylor did not land a blow on White.

White knocked Saylor to the floor for the first time in four before a minute of the first round had passed. Saylor came up dizzy and White landed the knockout blow. The men weighed 135 pounds at one o'clock.

ROCK GIANTS DEFEAT CLOTHING COMPANY TEAM

The Rock Giants defeated the Jamesville Clothing company team by the score of ten to seven. Pitcher Kelm pitched a right ball throughout the game. The lineup of the winners was as follows: L. Kelm, p.; E. Kelm, c.; Vobian, ss.; Dillen, 1b.; H. Kelm, 2b.; Gehring, 3b.; F. Gehring, Waldman and Seitz, fielders.

Bill Donovan, Yankees manager, refuses to acknowledge the Indians will keep on setting the American league afire. "The Indians don't look to me like a club which can stand much adversity," Donovan rises to remark. "Let them drop three or four in a row and its pennant bubble will burst. Fohl is getting by with several young pitchers who may not look so well when the race grows hot."

MORRIS MILLER

Frank Sioman, Pacific coast and national interscholastic 440-yard record holder, together with Fred Murray, national 220-yard hurdle champion, may try for world's records in these events in the athletic meet at Fresno track following the far western track and field championships next July. The efforts must be made in regular competition to count as records.

There are indications that the American Boxing association, which was organized at Cleveland, O., about a year ago, will go to pieces unless the boxing promoters of this country, who the managers and boxers themselves decide that it is a good thing and give it the proper support.

Floyd Egan, a member of the freshman class at New York university, sports during the year. He is the first man in the history of the university to gain his N. Y. U. in four major sports in one year, though there have been many three time letter men. The talented freshman has been a regular on the football, basketball, baseball and track teams with gymnasiums as the only sport granting a letter in which he has not completed.

Harry Tutthill, the trainer of the Detroit Tigers, who for the last five years has spent the fall in conditioning the Army football men, has left West Point for Michigan. This year Harry will do his best to keep the Wolverine gridiron squad in such condition that Yost will have no lack of material with which to build up his eleven. Ann Arbor is much more convenient for Tutthill than West Point, as his home is in Detroit.

It seems a pity that the University of Washington has decided not to send the eight which defeated Stanford for the Pacific coast championship east to compete at Poughkeepsie. The western crews have rowed so strongly of late years that their entries have come to be among the features of the regatta.

Playing the mutuels at Pimlico race track has developed into a craze. Recently the public poured $234,000 into the machines in an afternoon at the course near Baltimore. On another day the play amounted to $20,000, while on a Saturday $240,000 was planked down. The $1 rate of admission and the jitney car fare have increased attendance.

Because one member of the crew dunked, the Leland Stanford junior crew, which finished second at the Poughkeepsie regatta last year, announced it will not make the trip east for this year's regatta June 17.

The way Hal Chase is hitting, fielding and running bases for the Reds has made some of the managers in great need of a first sacker feel sure a little bit nervous. They were all afraid to take a chance with the former Fed.

Six heroes of no-hit games in the majors, and all but one are American leaguers. Harper and Dumont are at Washington. Cunningham is with Detroit, Nehors belongs to Connie Mack and McCabe is laboring with the St. Louis Browns. The seventh is Arthur Nehf, who is on the Braves' slab staff.

Marty McHale's the newest Indian. The former Yank hurler has been signed for relief duty. He won three and lost seven games for the Yanks last season, worked 73 1/3 innings, allowed 86 hits and 45 runs, walked 19 and fanned 25. Incidentally he's a hummer as a tenor.

Wheeler Dell, one of the star young pitchers of the Brooklyn Dodgers, started his career in baseball as a first baseman, and then took

SOME LUCK.

If you've married a lady can grab off the news, is nimble and neat at the game, just drop on your knees and thank heaven above, for you're straight on the highway to fame; if you'll do as you should and make use of the goods, commercialize that which she spins, common labor need never eclipse your career—you never need callus your fins. You can grind out a column or two every day, that's a stunt you'd do easy and well, the newspapers yearn for the yarns of the hour such features get over and sell. So I say to the man with a wife on the job, that is nimble at coping the news, if you do not get busy and put the stuff down, your fibert is there with the fooms. You never need worry, you don't have to work, you don't need to care about fate, for she will supply you with plenty to write, and you'll always be up to date. So here's to the wife that can round up the news and megaphone it in our ear, and here's to the guy who can write the stuff up, that nimble neat wife shall hear—the dear, that she nightly waits in our ear.

Pleasant Fields of Holy Writ

Motto for this week: The Bible begins gloriously with paradise, the symbol of youth, and ends with the everlasting kingdom, with the Holy City. The history of every man should be a Bible. Frederick von Hardenberg (Novallas) 1772-1801.

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.
Second Quarter, Lesson IX, Acts XV, 22-33, May 28, 1916.

THE COUNCIL AT JERUSALEM.
The first tollstone, dangerous missionary tour was completed. It would seem that after the perils and fatigues encountered in an absence of three years, the returning missionaries ought to have been accorded a rest. But no such good fortune awaited them. They were involved at once in a wearisome controversy. Their needs withstand errors as formidable as the Pissidan bandits, and heresy more destructive than mountain-torrents. Certain Judaizing Christians had arrived at Antioch. They believed the Church an annex to the temple, and that the only way into the annex was through the main structure. They taught that Gentiles must be circumcised and keep the law of Moses before they could become Christians. Paul understood them with all the might of his invincible logic. There was no little dissension and dissipation. It is probable that the errors sought to undermine Paul's influence, and offset the strength of his arguments by insinuations against the validity of his apostolate. He felt the need of additional authority, and so appeals to Jerusalem now as he afterwards did to Rome. A deputation, possibly including some of the Judaizers, sets out to lay the question before the apostles in the Mother Church. Though on an official errand, they can do so with the confidence of men who go, and as a consequence they spread joy in Phenice and Samaria.

On arriving at Jerusalem they are received by the Church, in which they make a candid statement of the case. There seems to have been an adjournment for private conference. After which they reconvened to make final disposition of the matter. All did not see alike, for there was much disputing. Finally the voice of Peter rang out in narration of the Cornelius incident, and application of the case in hand. The missionaries gave a still further account of their providential experiences in Asia Minor. At length the tumult subsided into the calm of a common conclusion. Then James the Just, acting as president, simply announces what he believes to be, and which actually proves to be, the consensus of all. With certain temporary minor restrictions, to be observed in charitable deference to the compunctions of Jewish Christians, Gentile believers are wholly absolved from the Mosaic ritual.

Judas and Silas, foremost among the brethren, are appointed to accompany Paul and Barnabas back to Antioch, and carry with them the decree in written form. So ended the first Council of the Christian Church. Would that all subsequent Councils had been as happy in composition and impartial in conclusion!

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.

The importance of the issue of the Jerusalem Council was superlative. The question whether Christianity should be a mere racial or a world-wide religion was then solving; for Christianity, handicapped by Mosaic ritual, especially the humiliating, revolting rite of circumcision, could never hope to make much progress outside of Jewry. Happily for us Gentiles, the Holy Ghost held sway in devout and sensible minds. The happy conclusion was not the result of the mere deliberation of a brief session. In the twenty years since Pentecost, a chain of glorious facts had been forging under the hammer of Providence. Some of the links in the chain were such as these: Selection of Hellenists as deacons; revival in Samaria; founding of the Antiochian Church; conversions of the Ethiopian Church; conversions of the mission to Asia Minor; and Saul, who would bind an unbiased mind to the very conclusion the Council finally reached.

The self-denial clause of the Jerusalem decretal is still in force. Christians are bound yet to a self-denying surrender in things indifferent, where others can be saved from offense by such surrender. The calls for such abstinence in our day are numerous and urgent. It was the apostle to the Gentiles who said: "If eating meat, of which we are in doubt, whether or not it has first been offered to an idol—if that offends my Jewish brother—I'll abstain from all meat forever." What would have become of Christianity as a religion for the world if it had been tied forever to the ceremonial law and made a mere offshoot of Judaism? To open at once a suitable deference to its connection with Judaism, and to assert its character as a universal religion, was the great problem which confronted Christianity at the threshold of its career. Even the inspired apostles did not decide the question then agitated by mere authority, but traveled all the way to Jerusalem to secure a general understanding, after giving a full hearing to the opposition. The Seven Great Councils are a final appeal for all members of the Greek Communion. But none of them could show the inspired authority of this apostolic assembly, who could truly say, "It seemed good to the Holy Ghost and to us." "Whom we gave no such commandment." The evil of self-constituted, irresponsible teachers is apparent thus early in the history of the Church. It has "troubled Israel" ever since. It inevitably leads to strife and schism. Authority discreetly administered and respected is indispensable to the Church. Men that have hazarded their lives. A well-earned recognition. No fulsome or formal term, but calculated to confirm them in confidence of the Church. Judas and Silas may lay claim to the honor of being the first apostolic legates in ecclesiastical history. It would have been well for the fair fame of the Church if all in the long line of their successors had been as ingenious. Here is preserved for us the first decretal, "earliest synodical letter of the Christian Church." Subsequent Church papers of this sort would fill a library.

May 28, 1916. Ezekiel XLVII, 1-12 HOW MISSIONS ARE BLESSING THE WORLD.

(Foreign Missionary Meeting.)
The River of Ezekiel's familiar vision serves admirably as a symbol of the missionary enterprise of the Christian Church. The river issues from beneath the altar. That signifies the spirit of sacrifice, disinterested devotion to the glory of God and the enlightenment of a dark world. Again the source of the river was within the sanctuary. Missions have their rise in the spirit and teaching of the Christian church. Again the growth of the cause has been gradual. The river has risen by stages, to ankle, knee and loins. In our day the river has reached flood; "waters to swim in," a river that cannot be passed over, one that cannot be successfully nor permanently arrested nor even deflected in its course. The effect of the Missionary River is to carry refreshment and life. It causes everything pleasant to the sight to grow and flourish. Ultimately it swallows the bitter sea of human life. Everything good lives where the river comes. It restores the lost Eden. The vision of the prophet solves into that of the revelator, and one sees the Tree of Life, yielding its harvest every month, fruit that is meat, and leaf that is medicine. All this is so because the river had its source under the altar of religion. No stream of other source could produce such results.

CONSIDERING REPORT ON THE WATER RATES

Board of Public Works Will Meet on Monday to Consider Recommendations of State Commission.

The recommendations that were made to the board of public works on the reduction of the meter water rates, are now being carefully considered by the board members. On Monday the board will meet and go over the report in detail, considering the requests and recommendations to formulate a rate to be adopted for the citizens of Janesville.

The question of the reduction of the rates is of paramount importance and requires extensive investigation and consideration. All members of the board have been given the report in individual attention and the officials will first meet to confer together on the question Monday. Certain sections of the charter laws and ordinances will have to be adopted in order to comply with the various requests outlined in the report. An example of this is found in the investing of the surplus money made by the city. The first consideration of the board, after the furnishing of adequate service at a reasonable rate, is to pay off the bonded debt. A provision will have to be made to adopt a fixed policy in using the earnings in paying off the bonds and interest year by year. The board has followed a policy of buying up bonds as is permissible, and it is now the plan to adopt a policy that will be binding in future years in order that a correct schedule can be put into force.

NOW'S TIME TO GET NEW TAG FOR FIDO

Reduced Prices Are In Effect for 1916 Dog Licenses.—To Enforce Ordinance Strictly.

Now is the time to get that tax for Fido, or Rover. This morning City Clerk J. P. Hammariund received eight hundred tags that will be used for the licensing of every dog in the city of Janesville for one year, beginning June first. Before the tags were hardly undone, B. H. Baldwin, 120 Main street, purchased the second tag, number three. This year the city is going to adopt improved methods in enforcing the ordinance. Since the tax was cut down to a reasonable figure, one and two dollars, there is every reason to believe that the citizens in general will not show the opposition that has been encountered when the dog taxes were two and four dollars. A total of 699 tags were sold last year and about the same number the year previous, which was the first year which the present ordinance was enforced.

A double checking system when the tags are purchased is planned at the city hall, so that the name and address of every person purchasing a tag can be obtained in a few seconds' time. The police will adopt new means to enforce the ordinance, and after a reasonable length of time, in which dog owners can obtain the license tags, the officers will be directed to canvass the city in search of delinquent owners.

It is surprising the number of cases where people deliberately mislead to get out of buying tags, and in the majority of cases where there are dogs without a license right now it is because the owners told the officers they did not have a dog, and bid the animal in the cellar for a few days. Other cases are that they told the officer the dogs had been killed or sent to the country when the truth is the dog was in the house behind the kitchen stove, said Chief Champion.

The dog ordinance was tested out in court last year, being carried to the circuit court, where the magistrate ruled it was valid in every respect. With this court decision backing up the city legislation a uniform enforcement of the law should result.

METHODIST CHURCH SOCIETY MEETS WITH MRS. KETCHPAW

The W. H. M. S. of the Cargill M. E. church were entertained by Mrs. Ketchpaw and Miss Jennie Hall at the latter's home Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Brigham had charge of the program. Lesson topic: "Home Missions as an Integrating Force." Many facts were brought out in regard to the immigrants in this country. A novel feature of the afternoon was a tree bearing a letter for all present, the postage of which being paid by recipient will be used in the work of the society. A five o'clock lunch was served, and all voted Miss Hall a successful hostess.

GRADED SCHOOL BASEBALL NINES MEET TOMORROW

Things in the graded school baseball league are beginning to look rather interesting as there is one team at the head of the race without a defeat and three teams are on a tie for second place. Tomorrow's games are expected to shake things up a bit. The St. Mary's nine will cross bats with the Websterites at the Court House park. The undefeated Lincoln school team will meet the strong Jefferson team at the fourth ward park. At the view of the Washington and Douglas teams will play. The St. Patrick's and the Garfield squad will meet on Gund's lot in the fourth ward.

THE WHITE SOX CAPTAINED BY BUD SOPHON

The White Sox, captained by Bud Sophon, will have a strong nine to put against the Janesville Red Sox in their game scheduled to be played Sunday afternoon at Yost's park. The red headed team, beat the White Sox early in the season and the game at Yost's is for vengeance. Berger, Voss and Sophon will do the battery work for the Red Sox. Curtiss and Mayer will be the White Sox mainstays.

These Things Endure.

Some of the things that are not easily worn out by much using: The ground we walk on (but we can exhaust it by bad farming); the love we live by (but we can tarnish it); the mirror in which is reflected the true appearance of things.—Collier's Week-ly.
